Our lives were filled with labor and leisure

In leisure or work, the best word that describes the Patriots is quality. In whatever aspect of life the Patriots participated, they strove to the best of their ability with the intention of producing a quality result. This year was a great year because the Patriots pursued it like they pursue everything; they did it with all their might.

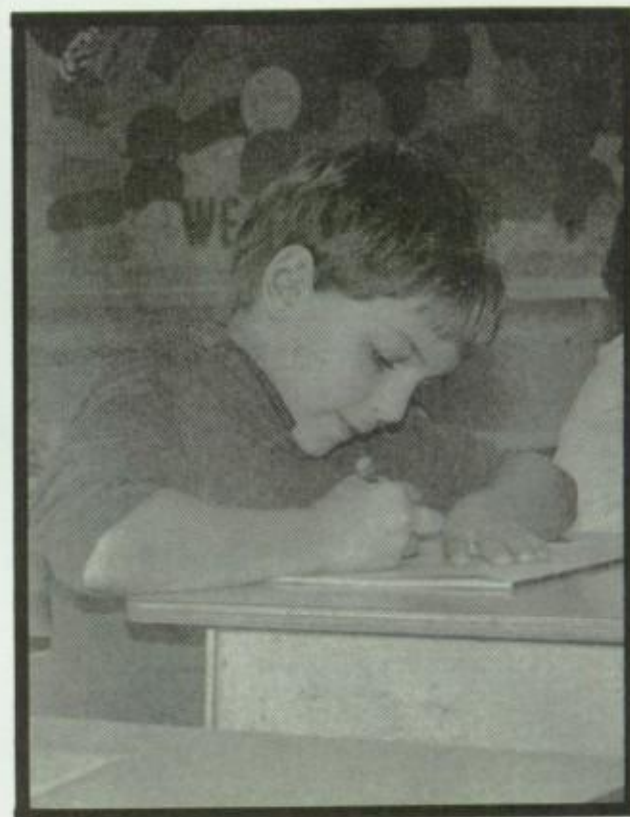

Joshua Walstrom pulls for the sky during recess.

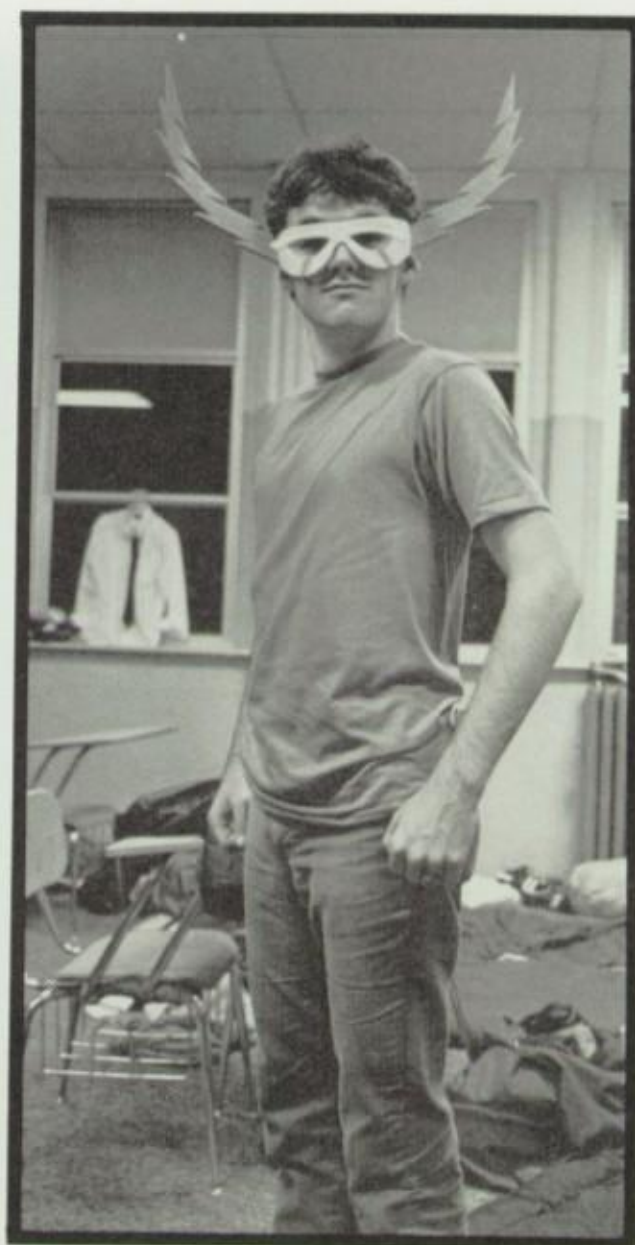

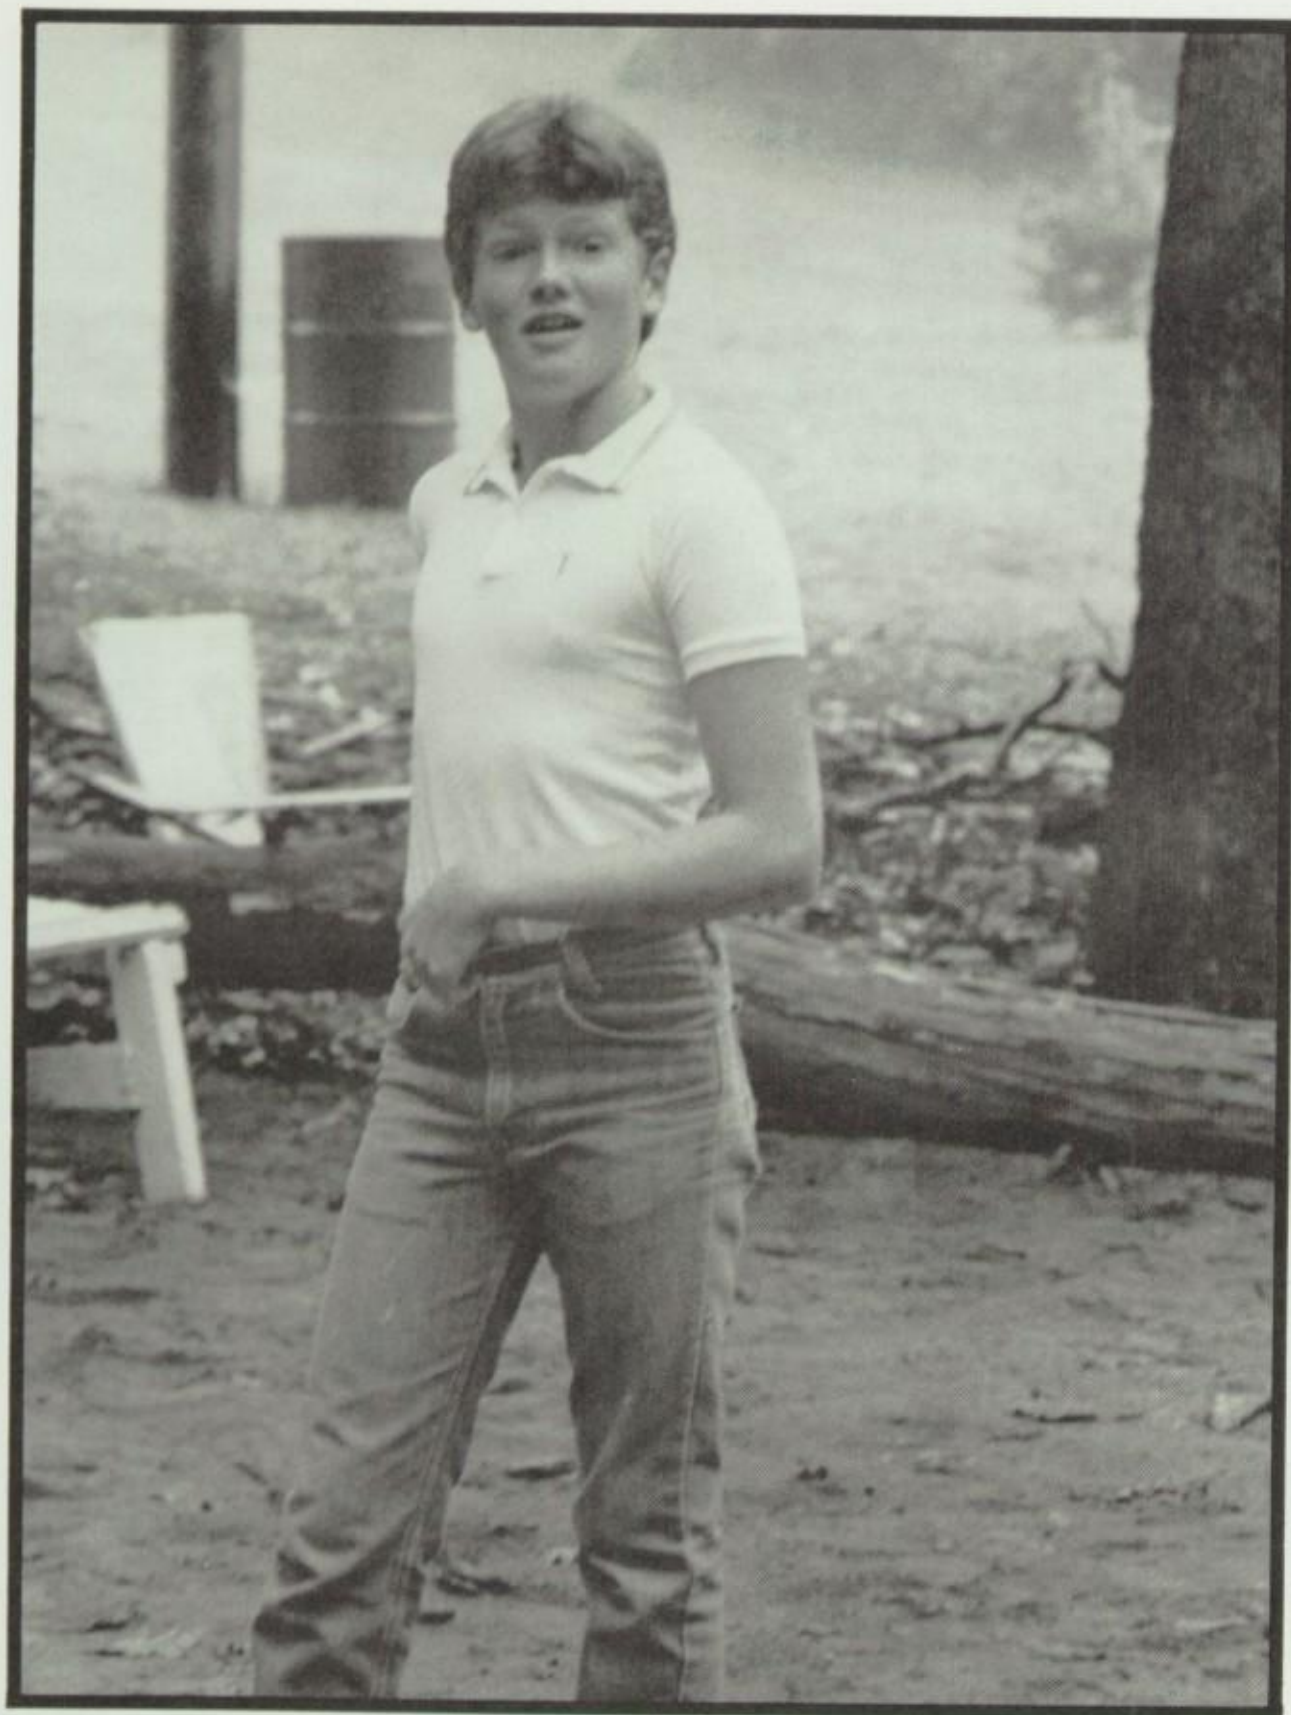

Matt Kress is lost in his thoughts at camp.

The second grade mob is showing what they do most . . . goof off.

We dreamed long and worked hard

Genesis 40:8, "We have dreamed a dream."

Sixteen years ago, a group of men dreamed of having a Christian school where they could send their children to be taught God's principles. This dream became a reality when Heritage Hall Christian School was formed. Through the years, Heritage Hall has grown from a little school building on Walnut Street, to a large ministry of Grace Baptist Church. What was once a dream of few, is now a reality for many.

We, as a school, have dreams which we turn into goals, and strive to accomplish. Our kindergarteners long for "graduation day" as well as moving on to elementary. The elementary students dream of becoming quick computation experts. The junior high students dream of passing junior high with good grades and looking forward to their freshman year in high school. Some high schoolers strive to pass English and science. Some dream of cheerleading; But all high schoolers have one dream in common, . . . graduation.

Even the teachers have a dream of instilling a desire of reaching goals in their students. They encourage us to do our best in everything, from a pop quiz to a good grade on a final test. They show us by personal example, that we should "keep on keeping on". Above all, they strive for each student to find God's perfect will for their lives.

The dream that founded Heritage Hall, that of preparing students physically, socially, mentally, and most of all spiritually for the world around, continues on today in the hearts and minds of every parent, teacher, staff member, and student for . . . "We have dreamed a dream."

The Sowers and Reapers dream of intense competition at camp.

The cheerleaders dream of "mounting" to the top.

Mr. Ice dreams of success for Heritage Hall this year.

Even young preschoolers have dreams of climbing to the top.

Matt Kress and the rest of the team dream of the chance of being state champs.

Climb Till Your Dream Comes True

Often your tasks will be many,
And more than you think you can do . . .

Often the road will be rugged
And the hills insurmountable, too . . .

But always remember, the hills ahead

Are never as steep as they seem,
And with faith in your heart start upward

And climb 'till you reach your dream,

For nothing in life that is worthy

Is ever too hard to achieve

If you have the courage to try it

And you have the Faith to believe . . .

For Faith is a force that is greater

Than knowledge or power or skill

And many defeats turn to triumph,

If you trust in God's wisdom and will . . .

For Faith is a mover of mountains,

There's nothing that God cannot do,

So start out today with Faith in your heart

And Climb Till Your Dream Comes True!

We all enjoyed the country fair

Fun, food, and fellowship

The 1982 H.H.C.S. Country Fair was a colorful array of twisting streamers, warm smiles, and lots of excitement, all set on a crisp September evening.

The night of the fair, the gym was filled with people, each finding a fun activity to suit their taste. This year's fair offered several new ideas, such as the hayride and even a visit from Garfield.

The fair, being a tradition here at Heritage, is always a highlight of the year, especially for the seniors. The benefits aid them in accomplishing one of their dreams, the senior trip.

Although it's only a memory now, it's easy to recall those days of preparation . . . selling tickets, making baked goods, and the general confusion of the moment. Though it seemed hectic then, it more than compensated for itself in being one of the most successful Country Fairs in the history of Heritage Hall.

John Lane gets a free ride from Amy Wright.

HIGH SCHOOL

Looking forward the years seem long; looking back we wonder where they have all gone. During the high school years the times are filled with dreams and the pursuit of those dreams. The realization of some dreams comes during these brief four years, and others continue on for a lifetime. Hard work, prayer, and the help of others all are necessary to see these dreams realized. This is what fills the high school years with joy, sorrow, good times, bad times, thought times, food times, dream times, work times, and fun times.

While some students dream of straight A's, others desire merely to pass literature. Some students often forget academics for awhile to dream of boyfriends or girlfriends. While the freshmen and sophomores of the school dream of being upper classmen, the juniors and seniors dream of what awaits in the great beyond after high school. Collectively, the high school student body has in its mind state championships, country fairs, spring plays, and academic meets. While some of these dreams come true, others do not; yet the experience and unity gained in pursuit of these dreams are tools needed for the rest of our lives.

Hat Day produces smiles, memories, and dreams from Debbie Richey.

JUNIOR HIGH

Junior high years are a time of many adjustments. Scholastically, they must adjust to a new situation of learning. In elementary, they had only one teacher and remained in the same room for the different subjects. In junior high, they move from one class to another, and are given opportunities to develop themselves into responsible people.

Junior highers have the opportunity to enlarge their scope of learning by taking various subjects. English is divided into general and advanced classes. French I is offered for students who are willing to accept the challenge of conquering a new language. For the musically inclined, band and choir are available.

Time at school, in junior high, is not entirely spent studying. The boys can try out for the soccer and basketball teams. Cheerleading is given as an opportunity for the girls to express their school spirit. In some activities they participate along with the ninth through twelfth grades. This provides a way for them to get a small taste of high school.

When asked to comment, junior highers said, "It's a time of doing things together . . . world's greatest-sort of like Barnum and Bailey Circus . . . without the junior high, the school might be a little less exciting . . . totally awesome."

ELEMENTARY

Elementary years are a time when students start forming dreams of becoming nurses, astronauts, pro athletes, and policemen. It is a time of awakening to new things, such as, cursive writing, quick computation, compositions, and recess. During these years the foundation for reading, writing, and arithmetic is laid so that in future years they will be prepared to build on this foundation. Not only are the basic subjects taught but also the Godly principles in which each teacher hopes their students will be grounded.

Elementary years, in short, can be summarized as a time of fun in learning and beginning in friendships.

PRESCHOOL

The pre-school department is a very "special" area, in that it is where a child often has his or her first school experience. That first experience is a vital one and can very well determine how a child will feel toward school for the rest of his or her life. The pre-school teachers are laying the foundation on which each child will build his or her education.

The three year old class is a ministry class. The children are introduced to school in a way that stresses obedience and the love of Christ. The children are also introduced to numbers, shapes, colors and the alphabet.

The four year old children are ready for a little more learning. They begin phonics and simple math. Art and gym activities are planned to help develop motor control so as to prepare the children for kindergarten.

Kindergarten is a very important class. The children get started on all the basic skills. Phonics and math are the two academics stressed. The children also start reading and printing before the year is over.

In each of the pre-school classes, the children enjoy many unit studies and learn much about this wonderful world God has made. The Bible is taught and the children learn about the love of Christ.

All these things, and much more, are taught with much tender-loving care. It is our goal in the pre-school to introduce the children to the Lord Jesus and to see them come to know Him as their Saviour. Academically, we strive to instill good habits that will help each child be the best student he or she can possibly be.

I Kings 3:7b says, "and I am but a little child; I know not how to go out or come in." We are teaching little children the things that will help them throughout their whole life.

FACULTY AND STAFF

The faculty of Heritage Hall is comprised of people who are dedicated and willing to give their lives to the students. They spend long hours preparing lesson plans, bulletin boards, and thinking of ways to make class exciting. Besides being concerned with their students academically, they are also concerned about their spiritual progress as well. The teachers and other faculty members are always ready to help, whether it be helping as a teacher or helping as a friend.

The teachers have many rewards for sacrificially investing their lives in the students. Their greatest reward is seeing that the students understand what is being taught. They are also rewarded by seeing the students mature physically, spiritually and mentally through everyday difficulties. The faculty's dream for those at Heritage Hall is that the students strive for academic excellence but also obtain a love and reverence for God. Here at Heritage Hall, being a part of the faculty and staff is not just a job . . . it's a calling.

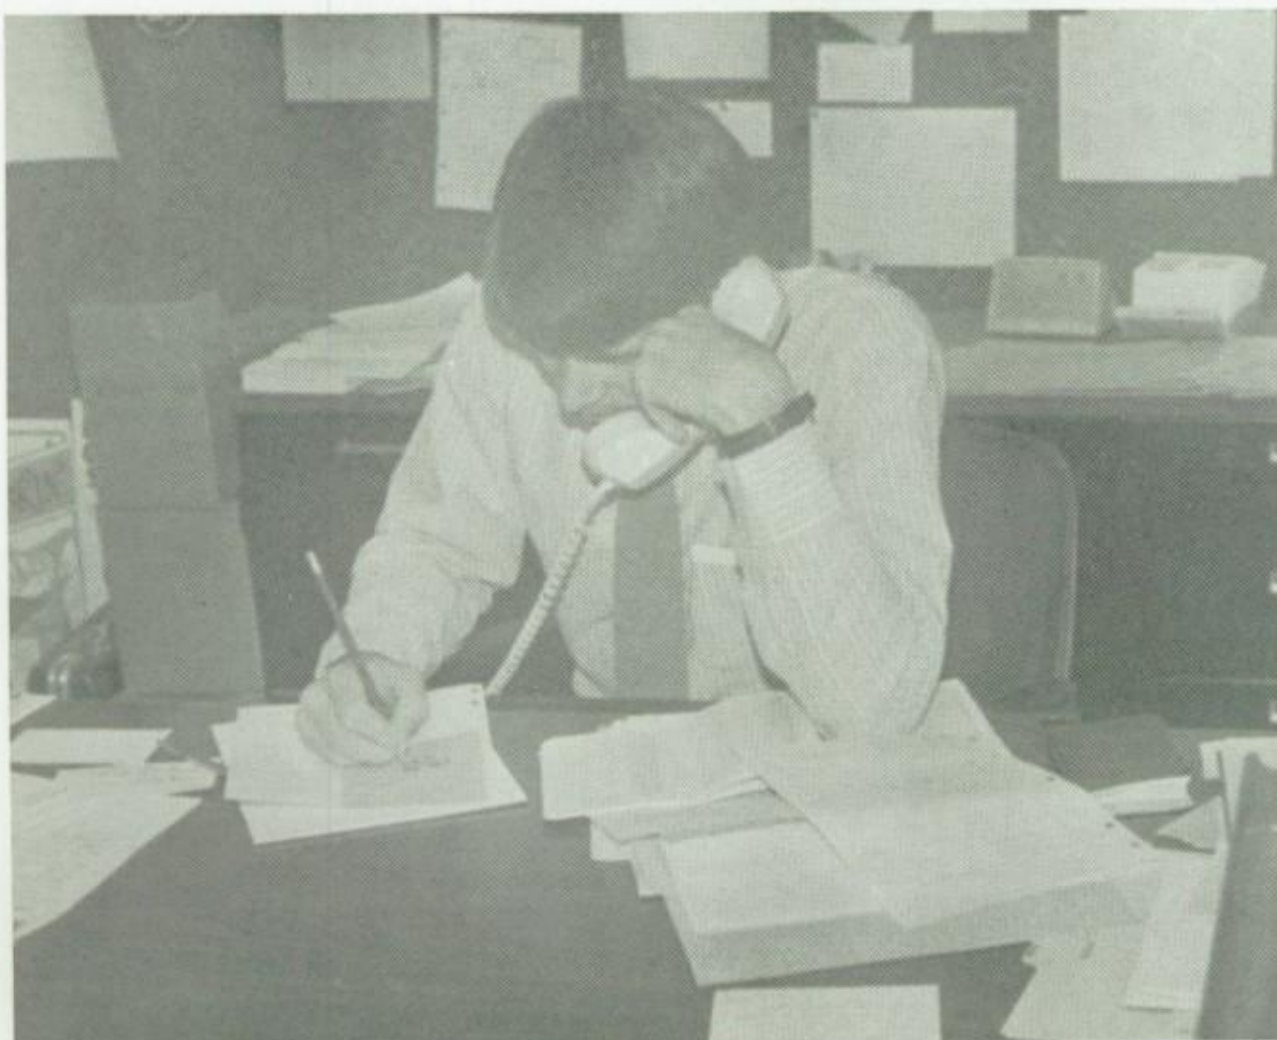

Mr. Scott assumes the position for which he is becoming famous.

Supervisors

The roll of the supervisor required much flexibility and wisdom, as they gave out discipline and helped students in time of trouble through wise counsel.

The supervisors met with Mr. Ice twice a week to discuss upcoming events and to seek advice concerning any questions they had. Each morning the administration led in devotions and prayer meetings with the faculty and staff. The testimony of these men and women had great influence on the lives of all of those around them.

Mrs. Caupp really enjoys the roll of being the preschool supervisor.

Mr. Callan was the vice Principal of the Junior and Senior High. He also served as the athletic director and taught math and P.E.

The elementary was supervised by Miss Hunt.

Administration

Heritage Hall has been blessed with two godly men to lead our school. Dr. Collins Glenn, Pastor of Grace Baptist Church, and Mr. Dennis Ice, Administrator, have let God use them in the operating of Heritage Hall. Both men realized the need of Christian education and because of this need, they have dedicated their lives into Heritage Hall and depend daily upon God for strength and wisdom.

Pastor Glenn has been the president of Heritage Hall since 1967.

ACADEMICS

Troy Young works diligently to complete his Bible assignment.

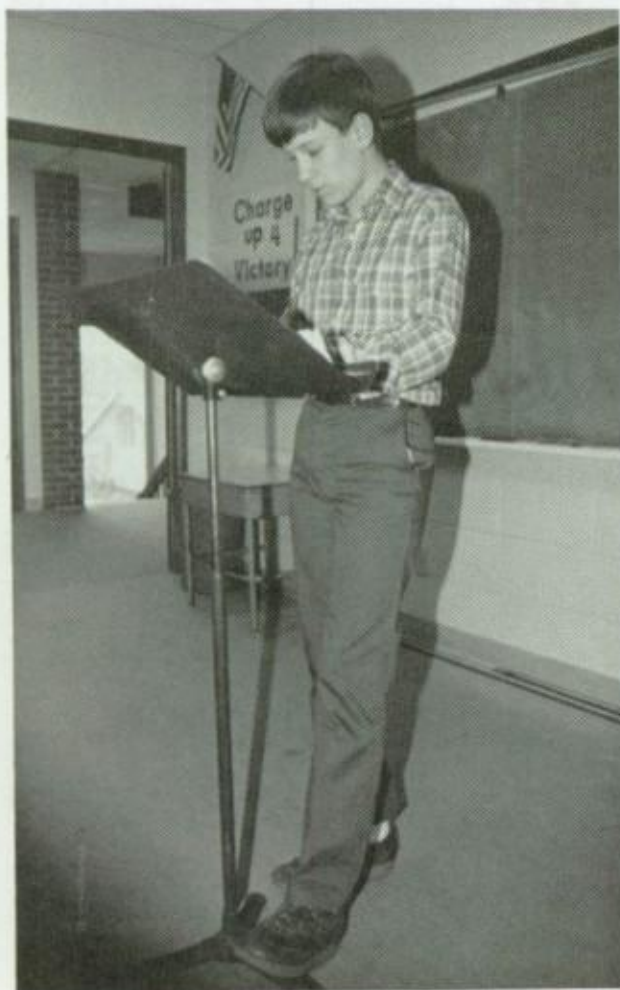

Debbie McReynolds makes math look easy.

Bible

The most important class at Heritage Hall is Bible. Students learn basic Bible principles and truths that will help them in their daily lives. With this knowledge, they are taught how to live before God and man. Elementary students learn Bible verses and the history of the apostles; and Old Testament heroes. Junior and senior high students learn successful Christian living and how to prepare for their future. Bible class is a very important part of our curriculum and is essential for the development of good Christian character.

Peggy Bracken checks her Bible to make sure of an answer.

John Martin reads a passage aloud before the class.

Holly Leffew reflects on past Bible lessons.

History

Troy Young reveals a new geographical development on the globe.

Lea Kautsky makes sure that she understands the lectures.

History can be defined as the story of man from the beginning of the world until today. Unlike most schools, the students here at Heritage are taught this story of man in accordance with God's Word and God's work with man. God is believed to be the Creator and ruling force of the universe.

Seventh graders studied civics under the leadership of Miss Math-er. Mr. Smith taught the eighth-grade U.S. History, the freshmen and sophomores Geography, and the juniors history of America, government, and the different locations of the world; they realized the influence of God upon the universe, in government, and in the growth of America. As the year progressed, the junior and senior highers realized that history class could be fun and exciting, rather than dull and boring with personal effort and interest.

Amy Mansfield learns more by using the map.

Speaking experience

The speech class includes pantomimes. Here we have "Washington crossing the Delaware".

"Oh no, not that!" could be heard from students signed up to take speech class. Both the shy and the boisterous were required to give a speech each week. The first speech was certainly going to be damaging to their health and the students would have done anything to get out of it. Everyone suffered from the normal symptoms of nervousness, such as drymouth, shakey knees, and butterflies. In the end, all of the students survived and realized that speech class was not quite as bad as their imagination said it would be.

Speech class provided good experience for those who had never previously stood in front of people. The majority of the students would agree that although it was the most feared, it became the most loved.

Mrs. Callan smiles as she realizes it is time for another speech class.

Angela Brown prepares for the Bob Jones Speech Contest by giving her speech in front of the student body.

Mrs. Lenig makes sure that her students understand their les verbes.

Derivatives and conjugations in Foreign languages

Derek Cheek says "Mrs. Richey, I am confused . . ."

Jennifer Caupp enjoys Latin.

Taking a foreign language can be beneficial to those students who accept the challenge of learning the cultures, customs, and languages of foreign countries. Two foreign languages are taught here at Heritage Hall: French and Latin. French I, taught by Mrs. Lenig, studied the conjugation of basic verbs and learned common phrases in the French language. Latin I, taught by Mrs. Richey, learned to conjugate verbs, decline nouns, translate stories, and even write original Latin stories. Both of these languages are beneficial to better understand the derivation of our English language. Many students took advantage of these two elective classes this year; they enjoyed and benefitted from them greatly.

Instrumental and vocal

Music

Music had a new start this year under the direction of Miss Burk. She had the awesome responsibility of teaching the fundamentals of music to the elementary grades through the high school. The pre-schoolers and kindergarteners were introduced to the fun of music by Mrs. Richey.

This year instrumental learning began in the third grade with the playing of recorders. A junior high band was formed separately from the senior high band. Private lessons were available for those who wished to learn to play a new instrument or to increase their skills. Through these programs, Miss Burk did her best to instill musical knowledge and to develop instrumental excellence in our school.

The choirs played a very important part in our musical development. Under Miss Burk's skilled direction the thrice weekly practice hours were times of sowing seeds that reaped great rewards. Both the junior and senior high choirs performed beautifully at Thanksgiving, Christmas, and in competition at the Spring Meet.

Business

As an introduction to the business world, Heritage Hall provides the interested student with three specific business courses.

Business math, as stated by Mr. Callan, is, "an opportunity for the students to come to a realization of the responsibility of finances in their future life, and to learn methods for dealing with this responsibility." Among the subjects studied are, keeping of their budget, balancing checkbooks, and basic accounting principles.

Two other business courses offered are typing and shorthand. Miss Bruns, the teacher of these classes, encourages each student to apply principles from the Bible which can be used in all activities. The basis of all the business courses taught by Miss Bruns is the verse Romans 12:11 which says, "Not slothful in business; fervent in spirit; serving the Lord."

Lori Luttman lets her fingers do the typing.

This row is almost set to begin typing.

Kemper McReynolds carefully takes notes in shorthand.

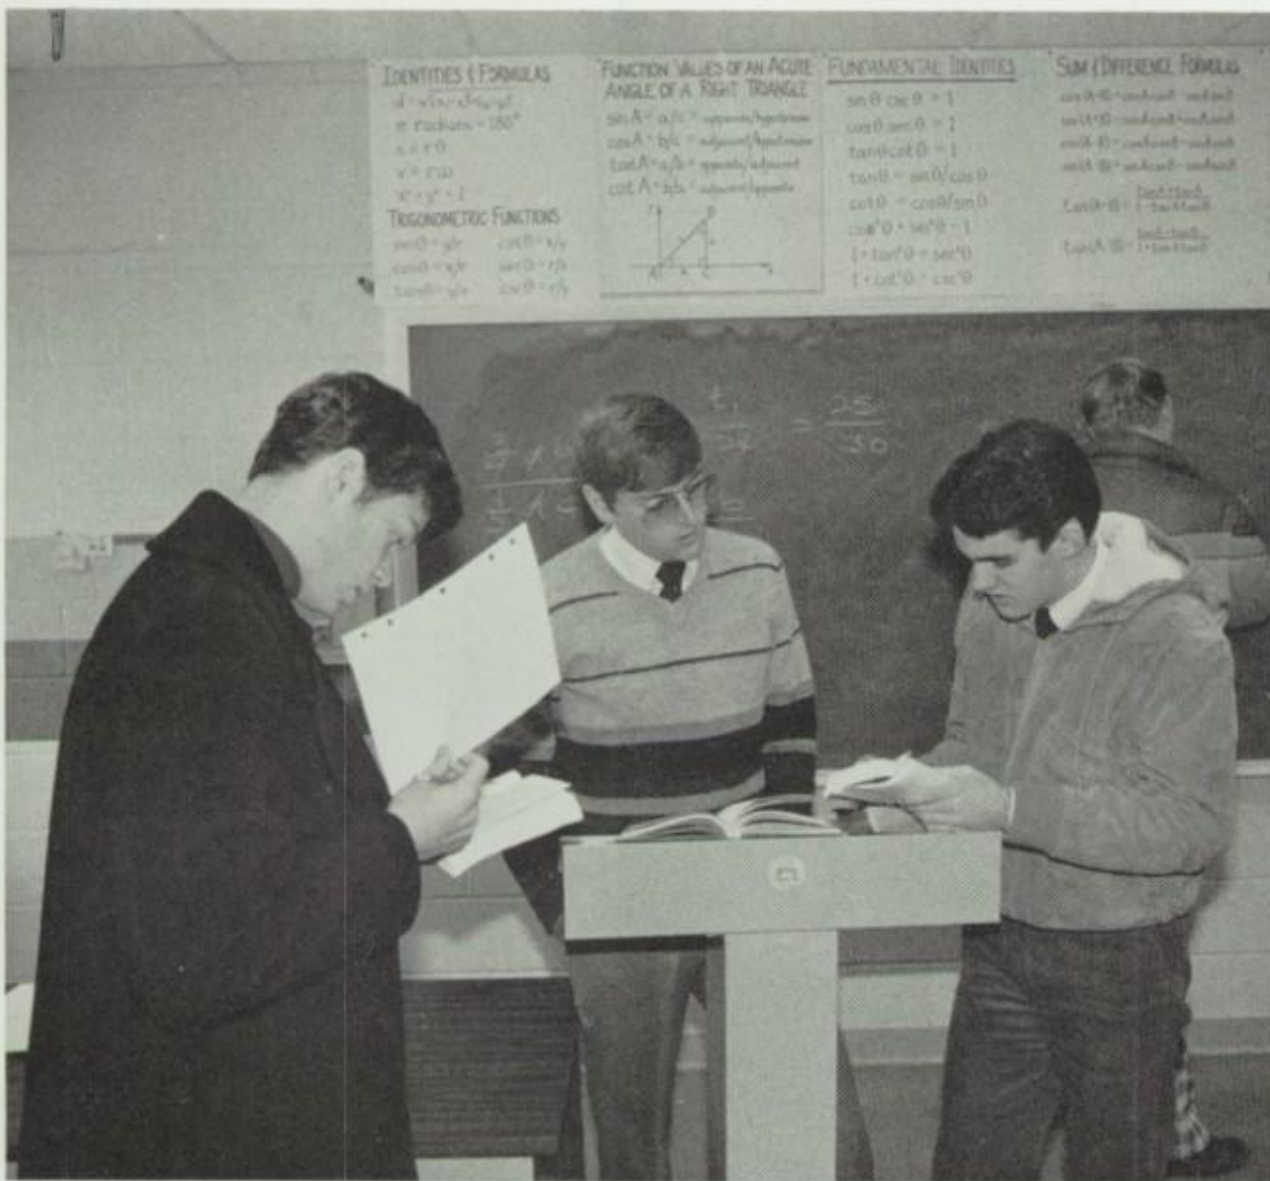

Mathematics

Mathematics is a subject, as Mr. Scott put it, to enhance your reasoning ability. Story problems, proofs, and identities all helped students reason better.

Math was a required subject to all students up through the junior high. The high school students were required to take two years of mathematics.

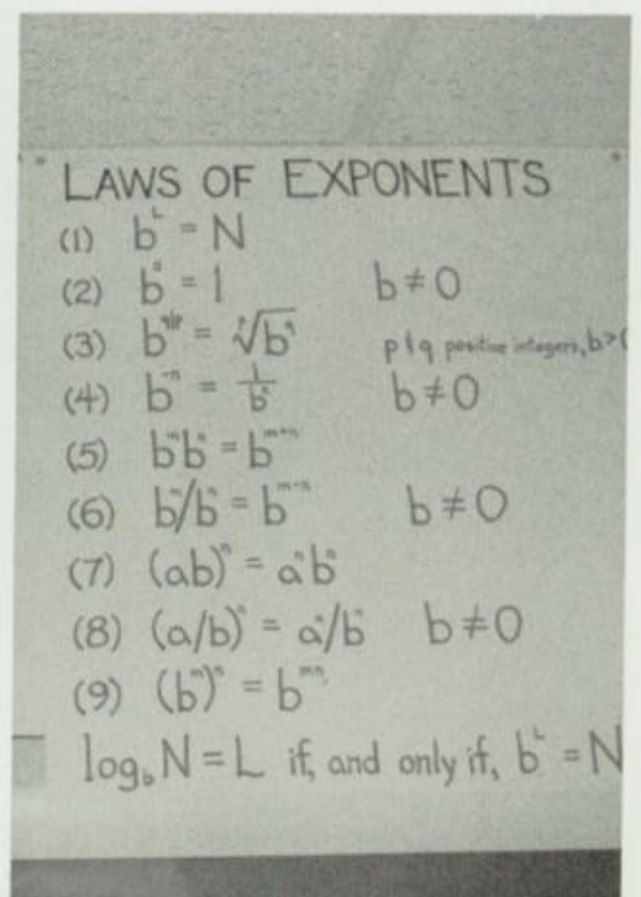

The elementary and junior high students learned basic math skills such as addition, subtraction, multiplication, and division. They also worked with fractions, decimals, and square roots.

Mr. Scott taught the high school students algebra I and II, geometry, and trigonometry. Mr. Callan taught the business math course.

Science

In this changing world of ours today, it is important for every student to acquire basic scientific knowledge in order to cope with and utilize the rapid advancements of the sciences in this age. At Heritage Hall, science is taught through elementary. In the high school, Physical science, biology, physics, and chemistry are offered with at least four semesters being required.

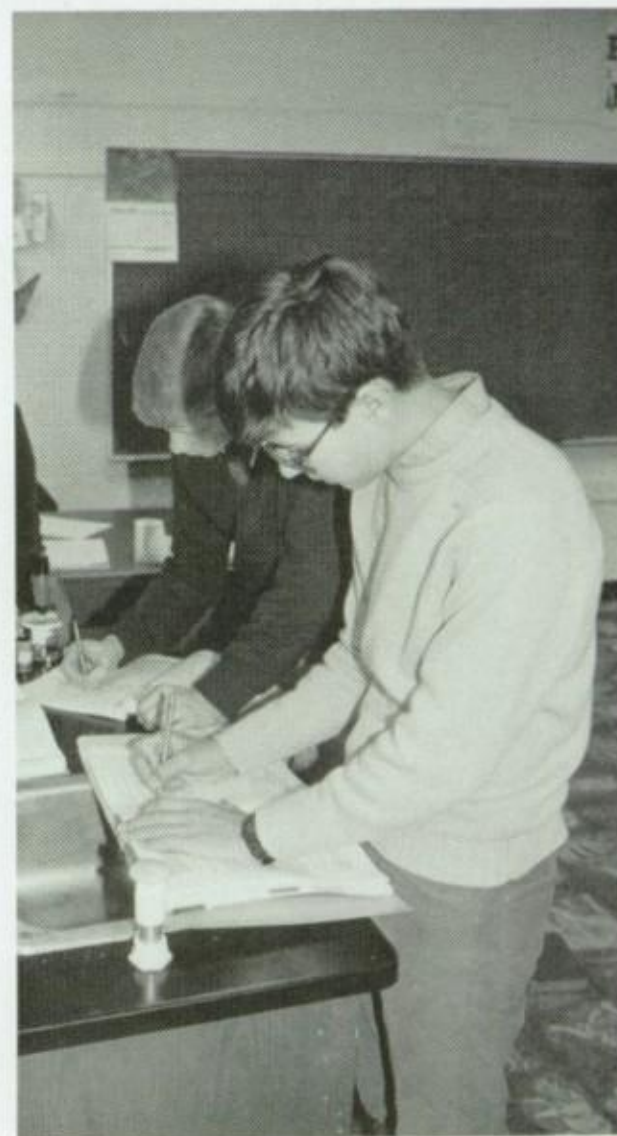

Science, today, is usually presented from a very humanistic viewpoint. At Heritage Hall, it is the goal of the teachers to present it in a spiritual light. This is done to give God the glory for His creations and to help students understand the marvelous order in this creation. In this way Heritage Hall gives the student a complete education in science.

English class

One of the most beneficial courses a high school student is required to take is English. It is one course a student will use throughout his or her entire life. This course benefits a person in many different areas such as: reading, and being able to comprehend what one has read, spelling and grammar in order to speak and write correctly.

Yes, English provides students with the needed skills in grammar and composition as well as a challenging and enriching program in classical literature studies. English includes such studies as diagramming, punctuating sentences, persuasive writing and reading classics such as The Iliad and The Odyssey. To summarize it, English is a challenging but interesting class.

SPORTS

Included in the education at Heritage Hall is the sports program. For the junior high, soccer, basketball, and cheerleading are offered. In the high school, students are offered the opportunity to participate in soccer, varsity and junior varsity basketball, or varsity and junior varsity cheerleading. The dreams are high of these students in their desire to be best, but the sacrifices on the road to success are many. The effort expended in practices, the time spent traveling to games, the joys of winning, and the agony of defeat are all a part of this program as the students develop physically; and instill Christian character in their lives. Without the excellent coaching staff of Mr. Dennis Scott and Mr. Roy Callan, and the love and support of our most loyal fans, our parents, the success of the patriots this year would not have been possible.

In the fulfillment of dreams, Tim Dersch comes to realize that it is not always as easy and glorious as it seems.

The year of the Patriots

"Soccer" was the word heard echoing most often in Heritage Hall. State Championship was the dream of every player. This was to be the "Year of the Patriots", although not all the dreams were fulfilled. The team worked hard, led by the senior class whose dream for a state championship was born their freshman^o year, the second year of soccer for both the school and students. It seemed as though the dream would become a reality. The score was tied two up at the end of the first half of the final game; but once more this illusive dream slipped from reality as the Patriots became state runnerup for the third time. Though the shattered dream left all heartbroken, this was no shame because this had been the greatest year of soccer in Heritage's history.

This became a year of records as the Patriots had the most goals ever scored, the most shutouts ever achieved, and Brandy Oren scored the most goals of any player for a season. Four players, Matt Kress, Greg Rawson, Brandy Oren, and Tim Dersch were chosen to play on an all-star team for Indiana Christian schools.

Through incimate weather and many injuries, the Patriots had a dream, and though not exactly as dreamed, they were victors.

The year of 'firsts'

After coming from soccer, all dreams seemed to be futile and the team was discouraged; but the coach had a dream and through him they caught the basketball fever again. The year was comprised of many as this became a year of firsts for the Patriots. This was the first time the Patriots had played in Mar-antha's tournament, and we won. This was also the first time Heritage

Hall had beaten I.C.A., and they did it on the junior high, varsity reserve, and varsity level twice.

The Patriots have always been small in height-wise (some say it is the water) and this was the first year any player has been able to dunk it for the Patriots, this was Rick Grimes, otherwise known as "Big Goon".

This year was packed with high emotions and great games, but as Mr. Ice puts it, "Character will win in the end." The Patriots never lost twice to a team, but if the opportunity was allowed the team was defeated in the rematch. Through hard work the small dreams were realized to make the 1982-1983 basketball year one large fantastic dream for the Patriots.

On the sidelines

1982-83 was a great year for sports at Heritage Hall as the Patriots excelled in both basketball and soccer. Much time was spent in practices, traveling to games, and playing in games. It would not have been possible to accomplish this work to fulfill those dreams without the aid of those unsung heroes, the cheerleaders. They were the ones who helped kindle the fire of victory within the team. It was their spirit that urged the crowds to cheer. It was their compassion that enabled the boys to get back up after the shattering of their dreams at the soccer state championship game.

Our cheerleaders have been, are, and always will be the prettiest and best. Both the varsity and the junior varsity spent hours in practice in order to achieve excellence. Our cheerleaders devotion to duty, determination, and spirit made them an essential part of the Patriot team.

Camp Crosley

The first week of the 82-83 school year for the junior high and high school students, once again began at Camp Crosley. This year's camp was unusual, in that, the school had just received a new administrator, Mr. Ice. As in the previous years, students took this time to meet new classmates and teachers. This year Mr. Ice used this week of orientation to meet his staff and students; everyone became familiar with their new administrator.

This year's theme was R.S.V.P. which stood for — Reapers and Sowers are Victorious People. To fit the theme, the two teams were, of course, Repaers and Sowers; with the Sowers being a combination of the eighth, tenth, and twelfth grades, while the Reapers consisted of seventh, ninth, and eleventh grades. The guest speaker was Rev. Dean Beaty who spoke on being a success which depends upon what we sow.

Camp Crosley was a week of reuniting with classmates, swimming, and skiing, eating good food, and playing team games. Our school is unique, in that, we have the privilege of attending camp for the first week of school.

Dedication to the Orens

Greg Rawson and Rodney Scott are the first to raise our new flag.

On November 8, 1983, the entire school witnessed the dedication of Heritage Hall's flag and flag pole presented in the honor of Mr. and Mrs. Jon Oren. Mr. and Mrs. Oren had been Heritage Hall's previous administrators for the past eight years, in which they gave their total devotion to the school and the students. The Orens put a lot of hard work into the building of a strong Christian educational school. It is because of their faithful service that the Grace Baptist Church congregation raised money for a flag pole to show their gratitude to the Orens.

The flag was given to the school by Norma Davis, who is an active member in Caleb's Kin. This flag had a special meaning to her, as it was the flag that was draped over her son's casket; he gave his life in the Vietnam War. We appreciate this great sacrifice.

The sixth grade has been given the honor of being responsible for our nation's flag. This flag and flag pole should serve to remind us to be thankful to our country and the freedom of Christian education.

Mr. and Mrs. Jon Oren are honored by this dedication.

Pastor Glenn and Mr. Ice proudly lead the pledge to the flag.

The play, "Winnie the Pooh", a familiar children's story, was put on by the elementary, under the direction of Miss Mitchell. The students worked many long hours memorizing lines and practicing after school.

The story was about the dreaded Kanga coming into the animal's happy forest. Piglet was taken by Kanga to her house so that Roo would have a playmate. Piglet suffered through many baths and spoonfulls of horrible tasting medicine. Winnie the Pooh saved the day, even though he got stuck in Rabbit's doorway to do it. Piglet was safely returned to his friends and everyone lived happily ever after.

"Boy meets girl, boy loses girl, boy gets girl." That was the basic plot of this 1936 play, "You Can't Take It With You". In this play we see a family (the home of the Martin Vanderhof) that has somehow risen above the common concerns of life. We also meet another family (the Kirby's) to whom the struggles of success and fortune are everything. Perhaps the merit of these two extremes deserves our consideration; but, as Martin Vanderhof would say, "Don't stop and think about something so hard that you forget to en-joy it."

Students show spirit and excitement

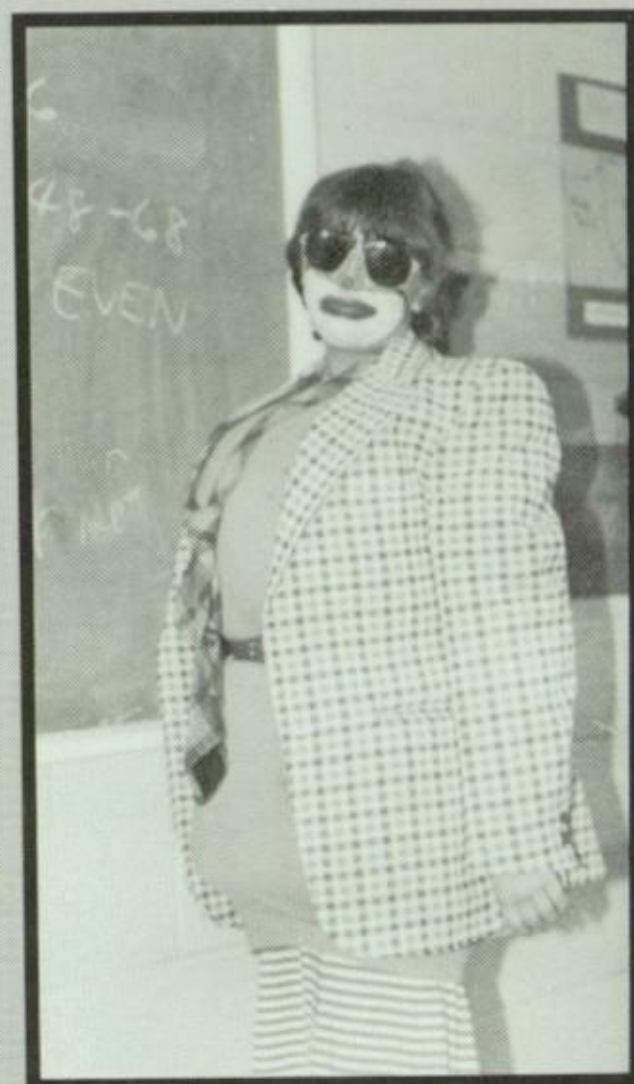

Spirit Week and Pep Rallies

This year, through the excitement of the basketball and soccer seasons, the cheerleaders planned many pep sessions in order to get the students excited and involved with supporting the Patriots. The pep sessions usually included a skit, sidelines, a talk from Coach Scott or Coach Callan, and something to involve the players. These pep sessions proved to be a big success in firing up our players for a victory.

Besides pep sessions, we also had two special weeks set aside right before the soccer and basketball semi-state; these days were designated as spirit weeks. Spirit week was a time to prepare for the big game on the weekend. The entire student body was involved in spirit week; from first grade through the twelfth. Each day was designated for everyone to dress in a certain way; for example, we had such days as: no sweat day, circus day, professions day, fifties day, and the week usually ends on red, white, and blue day. Spirit week was also a way to involve the entire student body, and prepare the Patriots for a successful game.

The Roads of Christmas

"The Roads of Christmas" was the theme for the 1982 Christmas program. The program was presented in the Grace Baptist Church auditorium on December 15, at 7:30 p.m. under the direction of Miss Hunt. The entire student body, from the pre-school through the twelfth grade, was involved in the program; including the junior and senior high bands and choirs, and the high school speech class. Five roads of life were presented through the program: the road of seeking, wonder, love, peace, and the road that leads to Calvary. The 1982 Christmas program can be remembered as a very meaningful and successful production by the Heritage Hall teachers and students.

The Heritage Staff

Yearbook is an elective class offered only to seniors, and this year the staff consisted of sixteen seniors under the guidance of Mr. Smith. Two editors were chosen by the staff: Debbie McReynolds — copy editor, and Tim Dersch — layout editor; Greg Rawson served as the business manager, and freshman, Gordon Cooper, was this year's photographer. Yearbook provided each student with the opportunity to design his or her own layout and investigate the special events that take place around the school for information for the copy on their page. Although it was an elective class, many students spent long hours in and out of school in order to make this year's yearbook the best.

Class officers provide leadership

Learning responsibility

At the beginning of the year the class officers fervishly worked at Camp Crosley to acquire votes. After they won the election they found out that being a class officer was not all fun and games. Class officers were actively involved in the planning of the school year. Class parties, meetings, and projects were a few of the activities that the class officers planned throughout the year. The officers had meetings with Mr. Ice to give him ideas or help him in the planning of school activities. The class officers quickly learned that with their office came work and responsibility.

Fulfilling a dream

The dream of Europe began even before the Class of '83 were seniors, which is probably why the dream has now become a reality. This reality will someday become a memory; a memory that will last a lifetime.

The dream wasn't accomplished overnight or even by some miracle. It took many hours of work to raise the money for the trip. The main money-makers were the Country Fair, Hardi Gardens, and pizza sales. Other ways that the seniors made money were the making of apple cider, selling concessions at basketball and soccer games, collecting newspapers, and having the annual Ray Keesling Day.

Even though raising all of the money was hard work, the senior class always found some way of making it fun. One of these times was the selling of tickets for the Country Fair. The highest sellers were permitted to put a pie into their "favorite" teacher or senior's face.

The seniors weren't the only ones who put time and energy into the raising of funds. The parents deserved a big thanks also, for they were a very big help. The mothers really did their part in the pizza sales, and in the kitchen.

The seniors had a dream of going to Europe. Everyone shared the dream and helped to see them go. When everyone did their part, the seniors saw their dream come true.

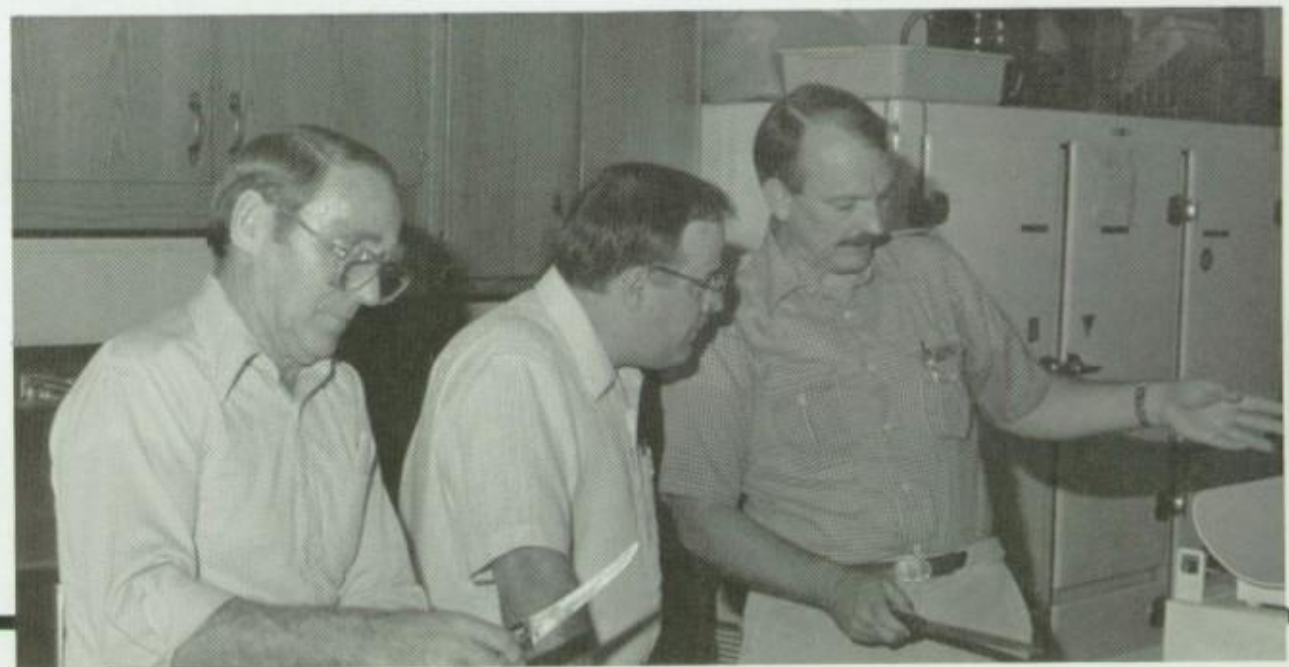

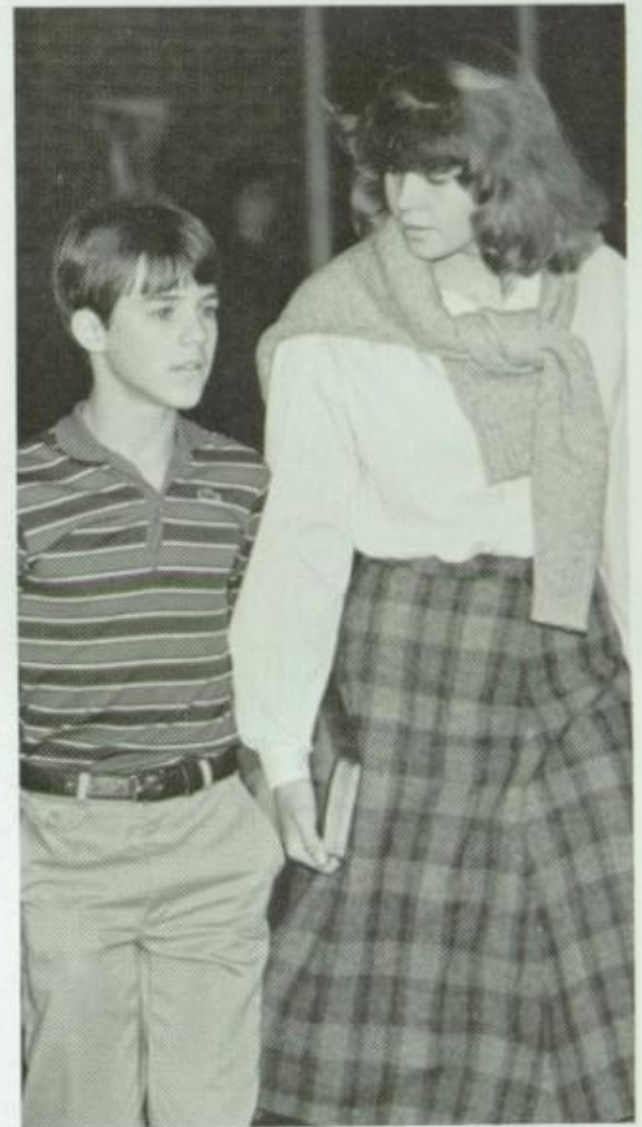

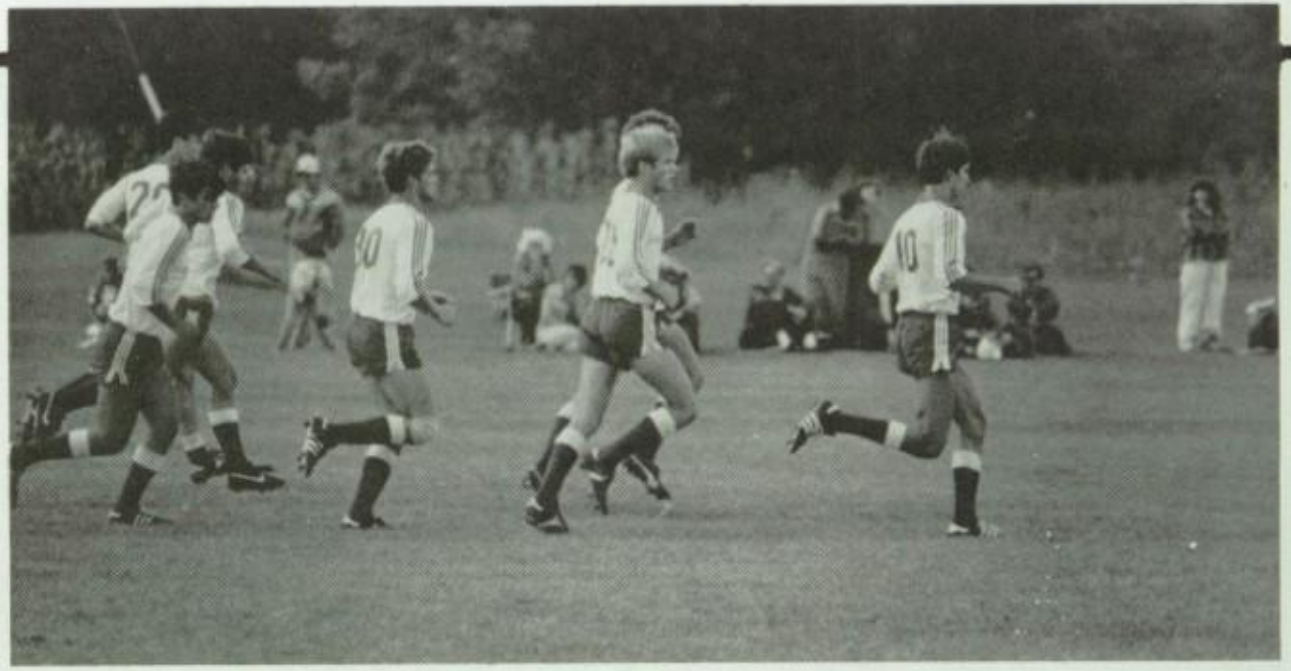

Just by the expressions on their faces, you can tell that Matt Kress, Greg Rawson, and Brandy Oren enjoy preparing tenderloins for Ray Keesling's Day.

Amy Wright and Greg Rawson are promoting yearbook sales by doing a skit in chapel.
